

Commitment to Meeting the Graduate Program's Academic Dishonesty Policies
TSYS School of Computer Science @ Columbus State University

If you are a graduate student at CSU's TSYS School of Computer Science, then you are required to complete and sign this commitment form. You'll need to complete a training/quiz on plagiarism in order to do so (see Commitment #2 below).

When you are done, you must return the form (as an email or as a hard copy) to the School Director of Graduate Studies, Dr. Shamim Khan (CCT 444, khan_shamim@columbusstate.edu).

Students who have already completed and signed this commitment form in an earlier semester are not required to do so unless specifically asked.

Commitment #1) I understand and commit to meeting all of the School's Academic Dishonesty Policies that are documented at <https://cs.columbusstate.edu/academic-dishonesty-policy.php> Commitment #2) I have completed the following training/quiz on plagiarism and emailed my completion certificate to my instructor for filing.

<https://www.indiana.edu/~academy/firstPrinciples/certificationTests/index.html>

Commitment #3) I understand that, if I am ever found to not have met the School's Academic Honesty policies, then I will have to face one of the following consequences:

First occurrence: 0 grade on the assignment. Might mean an F in the class if the assignment is the final project for an independent study class. Case filed. The student signs an agreement (to be filed) that they understand the consequences of a second or a third occurrence.

Second occurrence: F grade in the class (regardless of when and in which class the first occurrence took place). Case filed. The student signs an agreement (to be filed) that they understand the consequences of a third occurrence. Reporting to BART left to the School's discretion.

Third occurrence: F grade in the class and a requirement to appear before our School's disciplinary committee (regardless of when and in which classes the first two occurrences took place). The disciplinary committee might then require that the cases be escalated to the University's Academic Standards Committee. The University's Academic Standards Committee may require that the graduate student be dismissed from the program.
